

EDI / JEB Teacher Diploma in Information and Communications Technology (Linked to NFQ Level 6)

Overview

The JEB Diploma will provide the learner with a Teaching Qualification in Information and Communications Technology. This is a professional course of study, designed for those who wish to become ICT tutors or trainers. Prior Information and Communications (ICT) teaching or training experience is desirable, but the desire to teach is necessary. This course is not aimed at teaching computer skills. Learners must have prior knowledge to at least ECDL level or higher.

Benefits:

- The skills needed to devise and deliver ICT training courses in a variety of learning environments
- The ability to assess and evaluate learners pre- and post- training
- An internationally recognised, industry standard training and teaching qualification that certifies that JEB candidates can teach Information and Communication Technology skills to an elementary/intermediate level
- Candidates will also be eligible to register on the NRT (National Register of Trainers) with Fas, to allow you to teach IT for statutory bodies such as FAS Training Services.
- Prepare practical ICT Learning materials including, a completed teaching project, scheme of works and lesson plans, understand and manage the ICT learning environment

Course Content:

- Teaching and learning context.
- Teaching Strategies and methods.
- Managing the teaching and learning environment.
- Learning Theories and principles.
- Designing a course, scheme of work and lesson plans
- Assessment processes and practices
- Developing your own practice.
- Conducting a training session.
- Effective teaching methods and teaching resources
- Developing your own practice.
- Conducting a training session.
- Effective teaching methods and teaching resources

Accreditation:

On completion of the course (assessments/examination), the learner will have achieved a JEB Diploma in Information and Communication Technology which consists of:

- Education Principles and Practice (EPP)¹ - The generic teaching module
- Education Practice: ICT Skills (ICTS) – the specialist ICT teaching module

To book a place on this course, call our booking line on +353 (046) 9249618 or e-mail info@midasgroup.ie or book online

¹ Exemption from the EPP is given to you if you hold a teaching qualification recognised by JEB, either recently gained or kept current in a teaching position